more glorious the victory of its worth while its worth fighting for.

WERE OFF and over the first barrier and when we come around the turn into the good road run, because only the best can cross the line and finish with the winners.

THANKSGIVING TOSS UP

Over the hills and through the woods, To Grandmother house we go.

There was a time when this poem was known by every man, woman, and child in America, when Thanksgiving was a national holiday, when people the nation over stopped work for a day of rest, feasting and Thanksgiving. All the big football games were played on Thanksgiving; thousands went hunting; newspapers the country over devoted a large portion of their front pages to feature articles on Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving was in itself a great national spirit.

But what is Thanksgiving coming to? It looks as though Thanksgiving, in the future, will be merely a day when everybody gets indigestion and some get their indigestion a week earlier than others.

We should celebrate this democratic Thanksgiving which would mean that the Republicans may set it back to June when they get control of things in Washington. If things continue as they are the great national spirit of Thanksgiving will become only a legend.

GUEST EDITORIAL OF THE WEEK

The Logan high school paper, Logan, W. Virginia, expresses our sentiment in the editorial published below. It is immaterial as to when Thanksgiving is celebrated, but the real object of giving thanks is sometimes lost in the turkey stuffing.

OUR FATHER

WE THANK THEE

As the sun is sinking in the western sky and the last golden rays of light streak the horizon, let us pause to be thankful for the day.

Not only for a harvest of golden grain, far flung from flying banners, marching feet, and the rhythm of the drum, but for the fact that, "Praise God shall never die." For the broad expanse of earth and sky which during the past year have been transformed into a symbol of justice and freedom, for the staunch bond of friendship on the North, so great that wars are unnecessary to our borders, for the mighty oceans which separate our great land from the turmoil of the East, let us be thankful.

We need have no fear for the safety of our homes and families, nor do we know the dread of a bombing attack, for America stands at peace with man.

On Thanksgiving day in 1918, the American people, in the name of democracy, lifted their prayers to the throne of mercy. The Armistice had for two weeks been signed. The Western World was transformed into a bloody fighting ground to a land of quiet. They were thankful that truth and right were again triumphant, but was a real Thanksgiving?

How different is the picture today! Again the eastern front is a horror of exploding bombs, of flying shrapnel and moans of dying men. The land is a place of quaking and of flying with little children running to and fro. The harvest of golden grain, for there is a land of war and devastation.

JOTTINGS

By The Editor
Although the mayhem in Europe is dragging along, there is a more deadly war being staged here on our front yard. Few colleges realize the extent of the propaganda that is being used to influence the thinking of college students. It is more noticeable in the larger universities than in the smaller colleges, but even here in Morehead State University the information has sent pro-Hiller literature.

It is a decided insult to us to receive such information; the average student is not interested in the truth and the excuse and pretenses it offers in behalf of Herr Hitler and his maroonic hell-bent policy and its war actions.
